MISSION FOCUS

James & Sonya Herron
Sub-Saharan African Peoples

Sonya Herron stood beneath a large tent among a group of people with leprosy and others from the village and shared the gospel with boldness. She called them to walk in the light as Jesus is the Light and challenged them to be fully committed to Christ. Afterward, an older man who was missing one leg came forward on crutches. He declared his allegiance to Christ in front of the entire group and put his faith in Jesus. The man, who suffers from leprosy, is one of almost 50 people living with leprosy in the village. Sonya and her husband, James, moved to Uganda more than a decade ago to serve as International Mission Board missionaries in pursuit of those shunned by the rest of the world. The community of people with leprosy is one group that many in society ignore, but the Herrons have pursued them with the love of Christ. By providing health-care resources and opportunities to hear the gospel, they’ve helped lead many to come to faith. Alongside ministry partners from her city, Sonya started a weekly Bible study in this community with continued outreach to meet physical needs. As Sonya and her partners reach those with leprosy and embrace the entire village, forgotten and neglected people are discovering their worth and acceptance in Christ. “We want to try to love them and just see how God can use us to really take His Word to these people,” Sonya said. “Nobody thinks about them, but now they have found acceptance, and that’s what we want.”
