MISSION FOCUS

Landon and Megan Williams
American Peoples

Landon and Megan Williams serve in Santiago, Chile, and their vision is to mobilize churches in this global city to reach the nations. Traveling to 40 hard-to-reach islands in Chile can take a lot of effort—a flight, ferry, truck ride, and travel by foot—but Landon and Megan cling to the promise in Isaiah 42:4 that the coastlands will wait expectantly for God’s law. They traveled to Southern Chile with several partners to investigate how they could help reach roughly 40 islands. Landon estimates less than 20 percent have a local body of believers. He believes that together, they will reach the lost of Chile with the gospel. On one island is a couple—Moisés and Yované—who built a church 27 years ago with their bare hands, cutting each piece of wood. They have no pastor, but Moisés and Yované call people on their remote island to worship with them all the same. Rodrigo Dörner is a Chilean church leader in a port city among the islands. As Rodrigo sat in the small island church, he began to understand God’s call on his life to lead believers to reach beyond their island. He saw how his church could be the answer to Moisés and Yované’s prayer. Landon and the team prayed for Rodrigo before leaving. They prayed he would cast a vision, lead, and train leaders who could go to the remote island.
